Meeting the Zika Challenge Is Your Company Prepared for the Latest Health Threat?

How are companies addressing this threat to their employees who travel? According to our recent survey, The Zika Virus: Company Policy on the Newest Health Challenge, the overall message seems to be: Stay informed and take precautions.

How Companies Are Responding

47% operating in Zika-affected countries have conducted risk-prevention and awareness campaigns

Many have no plans for mandatory evacuations, though 28% are monitoring the situation

Only 7% have banned nonessential travel to affected areas, with just 1% banning all travel

So What Precautions Can You Take?

You need the support of an experienced partner. Travel First™ by Mercer Marsh Benefits helps insure your employees against the risks that can arise during a trip abroad, including emerging health threats.

Travel First Features*
